

“Last mile”:
The unbundled local loop (ULL)
connects the customer to the network.

Other telecommunications companies pay Deutsche Telekom the ULL charge on a monthly basis for the use of the unbundled local loop (ULL), the “last mile”. In telecommunications networks, the “last mile” refers to the section of line between the local exchange and the customer’s connection.